Introduction

The Kentucky Nurse Capacity Consortium (KNCC) was developed to serve as a statewide initiative to advocate and advance nursing workforce capacity across the Commonwealth. The Kentucky team was formed in April 2008 with the goal to “assure that Kentucky has an adequate supply of licenses practical nurses and registered nurses to meet the needs of the state over the next decade.”

The organization established subgroups to work on issues such as: retention of nursing students, faculty funding, nursing work environment, faculty recruitment, work life, and re-designing of nursing education.

This fall the KNCC joins with the Kentucky Board of Nursing and the Kentucky Association of Baccalaureate and Higher Degree Programs to bring nursing faculty from across the commonwealth together for an open dialogue regarding the future of nursing education and the role of each individual.
